Fourth Draft — October 17, 2001

ANNCR: The Games are coming. Are you prepared?

BOB: Once again, let's take a look at traffic with Candy Clearlane. Candy, how does it look today?

CANDY: [in a helicopter] Pretty much what you'd expect, Bob. Pairs skaters are taking advantage of the HOV lane. We have reports of Alpine Skiers on the belt route, and be sure and watch out for the men's Skeleton if you're heading Southeast.

BOB: Sound's pretty competitive, Candy.

CANDY: You got that right, Bob.

ANNCR: Join the team and Know Before You Go to reduce traffic congestion and get a competitive edge. Get current travel conditions, route maps and a real-time look at the roads with UtahCommuterLink.com. No access to the Internet? Just dial 511. It's the information you need to reduce congestion during the Olympic Games.

CANDY: Bob, I've just received a report of curling stones in the right lane in Weber county.

BOB: Hey, curling's harder than it looks, Candy.

CANDY: Athletes with brooms are now on the scene, so we should have a clear winner soon, Bob.

ANNCR: Know Before You Go. Ride mass transit, visit UtahCommuterLink.com, call 511 for updates and help light the fire within.
